COURSE DESCRIPTION

Our 8th National Changing Patterns of Cancer in Native Communities conference will be held September 11-14, 2010. This year's theme is Strength Through Tradition and Science. Our purpose is (1) to provide a forum for community leaders and members, students, researchers, clinicians, service providers, and others to address critical cancer issues among Native people; (2) to present updates on comprehensive cancer control plans in Native communities; (3) to review advances in American Indian and Alaskan Native (AIAN) cancer research to determine future research priorities and explore the science of translational research; (4) to highlight effective cancer control activities and programs in AIAN communities; (5) to highlight the strengths of AIAN traditions in promoting comprehensive cancer prevention and control, and (6) to publish selected papers presented at the conference so that this information can reach a wider audience. Some of the topics to be included at the conference will include cancer prevention, cancer screening, cultural sensitivity, tobacco issues, policy, structures and systems, comprehensive cancer control programs, palliative care and end-of-life issues, quality of life and survivorship issues, cancer treatment, community partnerships, traditional healing and western medicine, spirituality in cancer, physical activity, diet and nutrition, cancer education, movies and other media.

Syllabus – Attendees will be provided a memory stick containing course materials. No paper syllabus will be provided.

ABSTRACT SESSION

We are very excited about this year's educational program. We will be having a scientific abstract symposium during the meeting to highlight recent scientific advances in cancer. We would like to invite you and your colleagues to submit original research for consideration and presentation in these scientific sessions. Please see the “Call for Abstracts” section of this brochure.

Deadline for submission will be Friday, June 18, 2010.

NOTE - Call for abstracts have closed.

COURSE LEARNING OBJECTIVES

- Identify the current standards for screening for breast, colon, cervical and prostate cancer and any modifications that may be recommended in AIAN communities
- Recognize the unique needs of AIAN survivors
- Identify the essential elements for provision of palliative care with multidisciplinary team approach

INTENDED AUDIENCE

The intended audience for this conference includes community members and leaders, survivors/thrivers, advocates, researchers, health care providers, policy makers, and others working with Native populations – American Indians and Alaska Natives.

CREDIT

College of Medicine, Mayo Clinic, is accredited by the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education to provide continuing medical education for physicians.

College of Medicine, Mayo Clinic, designates this educational activity for a maximum of 19 AMA PRA Category 1 Credits[™]. Physicians should only claim credit commensurate with the extent of their participation in the activity.
