2010 Tribal Best Practices Conference Leading Improvement in Health Outcomes

Hosted by Alaska Native Tribal Health Consortium (ANTHC) and United South and Eastern Tribes (USET)

Conference Objectives:

At the conclusion of this conference, attendees will be able to:

- Identify organizational elements that will support the healthcare environment of the future.
- Examine how best practices and care team integration can be used as models to improve patient care.
- Describe how data from the Resource and Patient Management System (RPMS) can be mined to assist with population management, program planning, and performance measures.

Who should attend?

The 2010 Tribal Best Practices Conference will be a national gathering of Indian Health professionals, community health advocates, and Tribal leadership in the IHS, Tribal, and Urban (I/T/U) health care systems. The conference will provide plenary sessions, workshops, and hands-on computer instruction for RPMS-EHR, GPRA/CRS, and iCare applications.
