

2012 Tribal Best Practices Conference

July 22 – 26, 2012

Hilton Salt Lake City Center | Salt Lake City, UT

2012 Tribal Best Practices Conference

Climbing New Heights: Leveraging Best Practices to Improve Patient Care

Hosted by Alaska Native Tribal Health Consortium (ANTHC) and United South and Eastern Tribes (USET)

Conference Objectives:

At the conclusion of this conference, attendees will be able to ...

- Identify organizational elements and latest advances in medical and behavioral health approaches that will support the future healthcare environment
- Examine how best practices, care team integration, and health information technology can be used to improve patient care
- Describe how data from the Resource and Patient Management System (RPMS) can be utilized to monitor population health status, clinical quality performance, and program planning
- Utilize the EHR to meet Meaningful Use standards
- Recognize the requirements to successfully implement ICD-10

Who should attend?

The 2012 Tribal Best Practices Conference is a national gathering of Indian health care providers and professionals, community health advocates, Clinical Application Coordinators, and leadership in the IHS, Tribal, and Urban (I/T/U) health care systems. The conference will provide plenary sessions, workshops and hands-on computer instruction for RPMS-EHR, GPRA/CRS, MU, ICD-10, and iCare applications.

Registration now open!

<http://ntbpcconference.com/>

