

Regional Sexual Assault Response & Resource Circle(SARRC) Training

June 17th & 18th, 2013

The Northwest Portland Area Indian Health Board and the Oregon Sexual Assault Task Force are accepting applications from tribes in Northeastern Washington and Western Idaho for a Regional Sexual Assault Response & Resource Circle (SARRC) training. This training is part of the Northwest Collaboration Against Sexual Assault in Tribal Communities Project. Designed for teams that address sexual assault in Tribal communities, we will discuss development of a multi-disciplinary team to improve quality of care for victims and work toward violence free Tribal communities. We are looking for teams of 4-6 people (please see list of possible participants by discipline).

Possible participants include:

Current sexual assault response team members, sexual assault advocates, Tribal police officers/detectives, medical responders (nurses, physicians), Tribal court representatives (prosecutors, judges), violence prevention educators, mental health professionals, elders, offender management professionals, Indian Child Welfare, and others involved with fighting sexual assault from tribes in Northeastern Washington and Western Idaho.

Training Description:

We will address steps in developing SARRCs, sexual assault dynamics, and group activities within your team.

Training Location

The training will be held at the Coeur d'Alene Casino Resort Hotel on the Coeur d'Alene Indian Reservation.

Cost

The registration is free of charge and all expenses are paid (lodging, travel, per diem).

Please contact Jenna Harper, Training Coordinator, with questions at
