Native Strong: Healthy Kids, Healthy Futures/ Request for Proposals (The Notah Begay III Foundation (NB3F)'s)

Promising Program Grant:

About the Foundation

The Notah Begay III Foundation (NB3F)'s national program, Native Strong: Healthy Kids, Healthy Futures is pleased to announce its 2013 Promising Program Grant Request For Proposals (RFP). NB3F's mission is to reduce the incidence of childhood obesity and type 2 diabetes and promote the leadership development of Native American children through evidence-based sports, health and wellness programs.

Statement of Need

More than 30 percent of Native American children ages 2-5 are obese. In some Native communities, childhood obesity rates are over 60 percent with some children as young as four years of age contracting type 2 diabetes. This epidemic is not well understood due to the lack of comprehensive and current data on type 2 diabetes and obesity among Native American children.

The purpose of the Native Strong: Healthy Kids, Healthy Futures Promising Program Grant is to:

- Strengthen existing programs focused on childhood obesity and type 2 diabetes and:
- Assist communities and organizations in building their capacity to evaluate their programming

Recipients of these grants will be currently implementing programs for youth that increase physical activity and get kids moving while providing a safe place to play and/or support healthy nutrition programs that can include nutrition education and/or increasing access to healthy and affordable foods.

The Promising Program Grant will give priority to proposals that show strong potential to strengthen their existing program, readiness to build their capacity to evaluate their programs and demonstrate strong potential to share promising outcomes and best practices.

NB3F plans to award up to twelve grants of up to $40,000 each to support projects that strategically target childhood obesity and type 2 diabetes prevention through physical activity and/or healthy nutrition programs.

Examples of proposed work could be but are not limited to:

- -Nutrition education and youth engagement through community gardens (i.e. farm to school programming)
- -Youth engagement through organized sports programs

$$$ ~ Weekly Funding Opportunities Report ~$$$

Friday, October 25, 2013

- -Youth focused community physical activity (i.e. walking trails, outdoor activities)
- -Youth leadership development through nutrition education and physical fitness programming

Policy Change: In addition to strengthening areas of program implementation and building capacity to conduct program evaluation, this grant is targeted at identifying possible policy interventions to combat childhood obesity and type 2 diabetes. Policy change can be large, like adapting a tribal youth fitness policy to smaller scale institutional and process changes, like a school level policy change to mandate fresh fruit at every school meal. As a requirement of this grant, each grantee must develop at least one policy intervention that will be addressed during their grant cycle. Moreover, technical assistance will be provided to assist in this area of targeted change.

Grant Period

The grant period will commence January 1, 2014 - Dec. 31, 2014.

Eligibility Criteria

- Organizations eligible to apply include U.S. based Native American-controlled nonprofits 501(c)(3), tribal governments or programs, or Native American community-based groups with a 501(c)(3) fiscal sponsor.
- Applications will be accepted from throughout the U.S. However, preference will be given to applicants located in the following areas: New Mexico, Arizona (Southwest Region); Oklahoma, Texas (Southern Plains Region); Wisconsin, Minnesota (Upper Midwest Region).

Funding Priorities and Requirements

- Organizations must directly engage youth (ages 5-17) in ongoing programming that involves physical activity and/or healthy nutrition;
- Be able to demonstrate evidence of strong tribal leadership and community support. Organizations must provide a letter of support from the Native community where the program will be operating.
- Have experience in and the capacity to build sustainable programming in the core areas of physical activity and healthy nutrition;
- Demonstrate ability to enhance existing programming and capacity to develop new or strengthen existing evaluation efforts;
- Have strong organizational capacity to implement the proposed project and manage the grant funds, including prohibitions against lobbying and political activities;
- Demonstrate ability to provide a 30 percent match of the total project request (cash and/or in-kind);

$$$ ~ Weekly Funding Opportunities Report ~$$$

Friday, October 25, 2013

- Demonstrate indirect costs do not exceed 15% of the total project request;

- Subsidize individuals for the costs of health care
- Support clinical trials of unapproved drugs or devices
- Campaign for someone to be elected
- Capital expenditures
- Individual scholarships and/or fellowships
- Onetime events

Technical Assistance

Selected organizations will be required to:

- Attend the NB3F Grantee Conference (Spring 2014) in Albuquerque, NM. Applicants will be required to allocate and set aside $2,000 of proposed requested funds to cover costs of attendance for up to 2 staff members to attend. The monies will be utilized for travel, travel related costs, and lodging for the conference.
- Participate in scheduled conference calls and webinars as defined in the official Award Letter and Grant Agreement.
- Participate in teleconferences, webinars, or strategy sessions deemed appropriate for specific grantee technical assistance needs to assist them in implementing their grant.
- Selected grantees will be expected to participate in a learning network with other NB3F grantees to share promising practices and lessons learned.

NB3F Evaluation -

As a condition of accepting NB3F funds, grantees will be required to participate, when needed, in a standardized evaluation process separate from their own program evaluation. The evaluation will assist the NB3F in identifying promising and effective models and initiatives positively impacting Native American youth through physical activity and healthy nutrition programming. The evaluation will NOT be used to assess grantee performance or to determine future funding decisions.

Evidence gathered will provide the only available data and learning about the prevalence, root causes, barriers, opportunities, promising practices, advocacy opportunities and policy priorities that can further inform NB3F, the field at large, philanthropy and tribal leadership about developing a longer-term national online care management registry (CMTS) provided by the AIMS Center, including: 1) supported web browsers: Internet Explorer 7 or higher, Firefox 4 or higher, Safari 3 or higher, and Chrome, 2) the software plug-in(s) necessary to stream Webex webinars, 3) Skype, and 4) high speed internet connection.

JAHF will support two types of subgrantees: EXPANSION subgrantees will be individual nonprofit community primary care organizations that have successfully implemented the IMPACT model (or an integrated depression care model that includes the key components of IMPACT as defined here: http://impact-uw.org/about/key.html). These subgrantees will use SIF grants to increase the number of patients served in existing practice sites or to increase the number of sites providing IMPACT services. REPLICATION subgrantees will be individual nonprofit community primary care organizations that have established track records in implementing quality improvement initiatives but that have not previously implemented IMPACT or an integrated depression care model that includes the key components of IMPACT. Both expansion and replication sites will be required to demonstrate that SIF funds will be used for NEW, rather than existing, services. JAHF expects subgrantee costs to vary based on their organizational structure, the acuity of the patients they serve, their payer mix, prevailing wages for clinical staff and local workforce availability.

Award Amount: This funding opportunity is made possible through a Social Innovation Fund grant received by JAHF from the Corporation for National and Community Service (CNCS), along with additional grant support provided by JAHF. With these combined grant funds, JAHF will award a total of $3 million in subgrants over the first two years of the initiative with the option to award another $1.5 million in the third year, contingent on compliance, performance, and the availability of federal funds. In May 2013, JAHF awarded five organizations subgrants under this initiative.

In this second round of funding, JAHF will make an additional 2 or 3 subgrant awards to individual community primary care organizations serving rural, low-income populations. Subgrant award amounts will range between $100,000 and $225,000 per year for a maximum of three years, contingent on compliance with grant requirements and the availability of federal funding. Award amounts will vary depending on the number of practice sites, patient volume, estimates (or data, if available) on prevalence of depression in the clinic's patient population, and the subgrantee's proposed budget for program implementation.

Subgrantees will be REQUIRED to match their subgrant awards on a dollar-for-dollar basis in cash with eligible non-federal matching funds. As such, subgrantees will manage a clinical operating budget that is at least TWICE their award amount.

Description: The John A. Hartford Foundation ("JAHF") is seeking applications for grant funding from eligible and qualified non-profit primary care community health clinics serving low income populations in the States of Washington, Wyoming, Alaska, Montana, and Idaho to implement IMPACT (Improving Mood – Promoting Access to Collaborative Care), a program proven to improve depression outcomes for patients treated in primary care. Selected recipients of JAHF's Social Innovation Fund (SIF) grant funds (hereafter referred to as 'subgrantees') will implement the model in order to achieve the following goals: 1) increase access to effective depression treatment for low-income patients in rural areas, 2) decrease depression and improve social and occupational functioning among these patients, and 3) improve the economic well-being of individuals and families served by subgrantees. This funding opportunity is made possible through a Social Innovation Fund grant received by JAHF from the Corporation for National and Community Service (CNCS), along with additional grant support provided by JAHF. With these combined grant funds, JAHF will award a total of $3 million in subgrants over the first two years of the initiative with the option to award another $1.5 million in the third year, contingent on compliance, performance, and the availability of federal funds. In May 2013, JAHF awarded five organizations subgrants under this initiative. FOUNDATION FOR RURAL EDUCATION & DEVELOPMENT TECHNOLOGY GRANTS FOR RURAL SCHOOLS Program for rural, public schools in the US and Canada

Deadline: November 15, 2013

Award Amount: $1,000 - $5,000 Grants ($35,000 in Available Funding)

Description: As the role of technology in classrooms grows, it becomes a powerful tool to improve both teaching and learning. Many rural schools are incorporating new, innovative technology in an effort to help motivate and inspire their students. Their goals include bringing modern computers to every classroom, connecting every classroom to the Internet and making sure that effective and engaging software and online resources will be an integral part of every school curriculum. Many public schools in rural areas lack the resources to obtain new technologies and cannot meet these goals. The Foundation for Rural Education and Development (FRED) created the Technology Grants for Rural Schools program to help meet the growing need for innovative technology in the classroom. This grant program, now in its 13th year, provides funding for projects that advance technology.

December DEADLINES:

Sustaining Cultural Heritage Collections - National Endowment for the Humanities

Deadline: Dec 3, 2013

Award Amount: $350,000

Description: Sustaining Cultural Heritage Collections (SCHC) helps cultural institutions meet the complex challenge of preserving large and diverse holdings of humanities materials for future generations by supporting preventive conservation measures that mitigate deterioration and prolong the useful life of collections. Libraries, archives, museums, and historical organizations across the country are responsible for collections of books and manuscripts, photographs, sound recordings and moving images, archaeological and ethnographic artifacts, art, and historical objects that facilitate research, strengthen teaching, and provide opportunities for life-long learning in the humanities. To preserve and ensure continued access to such collections, institutions must implement preventive conservation measures, which encompass managing relative humidity, temperature, light, and pollutants in collection spaces; providing protective storage enclosures and systems for collections; and safeguarding collections from theft and from natural and man-made disasters. As museums, libraries, archives, and other collecting institutions strive to be effective stewards of humanities collections, they must find ways to implement preventive conservation measures that are scientifically sound and sustainable. This program therefore helps cultural repositories plan and implement preservation strategies that pragmatically balance effectiveness, cost, and environmental impact. Such a balance can contribute to an institution; s financial health, reduce its use of fossil fuels, and benefit its green initiatives, while ensuring that significant collections are well cared for and available for use in humanities programming, education, and

Community Development Financial Institutions Funds

"Treasury Announces $12.4 Million in Assistance to Native Communities"

2013 NACA Program Awardees Will Stimulate Economic Development in Low-Income Areas

Washington, DC – Native American, Alaska Native, and Native Hawaiian communities (Native Communities) throughout the United States will receive much-needed economic and community development assistance as a result of the $12.4 million in Native American CDFI Assistance Program (NACA Program) awards announced today.

Thirty-five organizations serving Native Communities received awards from the U.S. Department of the Treasury's Community Development Financial Institutions Fund (CDFI Fund) under the fiscal year (FY) 2013 round of the NACA Program. The awardees all aim to increase lending and financial services in Native Communities, stimulating economic development in some of the most distressed and low-income parts of the country.

"The Native American CDFI Assistance Program is providing critically needed funds for distressed Native and tribal areas, many of which lack traditional banking services," said Don Graves, Treasury Deputy Assistant Secretary for Small Business, Community Development and Housing Policy. "This latest round of awards will expand the capacity of native financial institutions to develop innovative economic development solutions for the businesses and individuals in their communities."

The awardees, all certified Native Community Development Financial Institutions (Native CDFIs) or organizations looking to become or create Native CDFIs, will receive a collective total of $12,451,015 in Financial Assistance and Technical Assistance awards. Eighteen Native CDFIs will receive Financial Assistance awards, which are primarily used for financing capital. Seventeen organizations will receive Technical Assistance grants, which are usually used to acquire products or services, staff training, professional services, or other support.

"The FY 2013 NACA Program awards will lead to increased loans for small businesses, affordable housing, and community facilities in Native Communities, in addition to basic financial services that are essential to building household wealth and stability," said CDFI Fund Director Donna J. Gambrell. "As the award-making arm of the CDFI Fund's Native Initiatives, the NACA Program has consistently supported the unique organizations that are doing such vital work in these communities."

The majority of the target markets served by the awardees are rural, although seven organizations primarily serve minor urban areas. The organizations are headquartered in fifteen different states across the country. Full information about the FY 2013 NACA Program awardees can be found in the CDFI Fund's Searchable Award Database at www.cdfifund.gov/awards.

The FY 2013 NACA Program Awards announcement comes at a time when the CDFI Fund's Native Initiatives is in the middle of studying the current availability of access to capital and credit in Native Communities. The "Access to Capital and Credit in Native Communities" study will draw on focus groups, tribal consultations, and independent research to establish the current reality of capital and credit availability in Native areas. The results of the study will be used to inform the CDFI Fund's future approach to the training, technical assistance, and awards that it provides through the Native Initiatives.

About the CDFI Fund

Since its creation in 1994, the CDFI Fund has awarded over $1.7 billion to CDFIs, community development organizations, and financial institutions through the CDFI Program, the Bank Enterprise Awards Program, the Capital Magnet Fund, the Financial Education and Counseling Pilot Program, and the Native American CDFI Assistance Program. In addition, the CDFI Fund has allocated $36.5 billion in tax credit authority to Community Development Entities through the New Markets Tax Credit Program. Learn more about the CDFI Fund and its programs at www.cdfifund.gov.

About the Native Initiatives

The CDFI Fund's Native Initiatives work to increase access to credit, capital, and financial services in communities by creating and expanding CDFIs primarily serving Native Communities. This is achieved through two principle initiatives: 1) a funding program – the NACA Program – targeted to increasing the number and capacity of existing or new Native CDFIs, and 2) a complementary series of training programs that seek to foster the development of new Native CDFIs, strengthen the operational capacity of existing Native CDFIs, and guide Native CDFIs in the creation of important financial education and asset building programs for their communities. OREGON & SW WASHINGTON ONLY

NORTHWEST HEALTH FOUNDATION

NWHF Launches Online Sponsorship Applications

By: Fannie Black | Posted on: September 30th, 2013

Categories: Public Health

NWHF may be headquartered in Portland, but we serve the entire state of Oregon and SW Washington. We are continually looking for new ways to establish partnerships beyond the Portland-metro area, especially to rural communities. As the grant administrator for NWHF, I'm always looking for ways to help foster those partnerships by making the funding process efficient and reaching a broader audience.

One area we recently identified as needing a more formalized process was our sponsorships. Many organizations were unaware that sponsorships were available through the Foundation and even fewer were aware of the process to obtain one. We have been working to make our sponsorship funding more accessible, and as a result we launched our online application and sponsorship policy a few weeks ago (http://nwhf.org/sponsorships). We are thrilled with the level of interest from organizations across Oregon and SW Washington and have received inquiries from Astoria to La Grande, Oregon, and Longview, Washington, to Grants Pass, Oregon.

The sponsorship program also provides us the opportunity to form partnerships with organizations who may not necessarily qualify for grant opportunities. There are a lot of organizations doing great work promoting health or contributing to the determinants of health and we want to work with you to increase your visibility. Please review our full policy to determine eligibility, and if you have questions about sponsorships please feel free to contact me at fannie@nwhf.org or (503) 505-5702.
