Thoughts to ponder: "As the Chi'lange'lth (Inherent Birth Rights) is superseding treaties in First Nation territories (Lousie Mandell, Q.C. First Nation Aboriginal & Treaty Rights lawyer) and as our treaties and public trust doctrines are two essential tools to help protect our environment (Mary C. Woods, Environmental Law Scholar), we envision a Coast Salish Tribal Heritage Field Institute will forever allow our people to practice their treaty rights and inherent birth rights and in doing so, offer a measure of cultural, historical, scientific, and ecological health protection and sustainability that can be modeled across the United States and Canada as they also work with their community with one mind."
