The Opportunity

The Northwest Native American Research Center for Health (NARCH) housed at the Northwest Portland Area Indian Health Board has a unique learning opportunity for American Indian/Alaska Native 11th and 12th graders.

Q & A

Can more than one site from a community apply?

Yes! The more, the merrier!

Can younger or older youth apply?

This is designed for 16-18 year-olds, but we'll review applicants on a case-by-case basis.

Do youth have to stay at school to view sessions?

We want youth to support each other, but they can join where they're most comfortable & Wi-Fi is strong!

What if the mentor isn't available to attend the week in PDX?

No worries! Another parent or chaperone can accompany students.
