I know that the path
to recovery is hard.
I want you to know it
is worth it and you
can do it.
